

October 11, 2009

We, the editorial staff of Pro Audio Review, would like to congratulate you on your 2009 PAR Excellence Award. This award is presented to professional audio companies that exhibited a particularly significant new product at the 127th AES Convention in October 2009.

PAR Excellence Award-winning products are nominated and selected by a panel of audio engineers, professional end-users, and PAR Contributors with the oversight of PAR's editorial staff. These products are chosen based on their potential to enhance the quality of an audio professional's work. Criteria include innovation in design, performance/value ratio, enhanced features, and performance improvements over previous versions. All 2009 PAR Excellence Award winners must have been introduced after the October 2008 AES Convention.

Over the next year, we aim to review as many 2009 PAR Excellence winners as possible within the pages of Pro Audio Review. When your product is commercially available, please contact us directly to schedule a full review by a member of our qualified staff of audio professionals for publication in our magazine, the review resource for sound professionals.

Best Regards,
